1. The military airfield at Spisska Nova Ves lies about 1.2 kilometers southwest of the Spisska Nova Ves railroad station on the double-track main line between Kosice and Poprad.
2. The field is about 1,800 m. long and 1,200 m. wide. The field is not fenced and there is a slope of the ground from south to north in the direction of the Hornad River. The field has a grass surface and the earth is firm clay. There are no runways.
3. About 15 single-engine propeller-driven aircraft of old types are stationed on this field. Flying activity is rather slight here.
4. About 200 men are stationed on the Spisska Nova Ves airfield.
5. The field is guarded by one sentry at the entrance and by patrols of two men which are sent out from time to time.
6. this is a reserve airfield rather than a first-line military field. It has no radar apparatus but does have a radio installation in the administration building.
